BETWEEN TWO WORLDS: MODERN WIVES IN A TRADITIONAL SETTING

STELLA R. QUAH

Field Report Series No. 19
1988
Stella R. Quah (1988)

Between Two Worlds:
Modern wives in a traditional setting
Singapore: Institute of Southeast Asian Studies

This study focuses on the married couple’s decision concerning the timing of their first child, and identifies the relevant factors involved in such a decision. The analysis is based on some of the findings from a larger study on delayed parenthood sponsored by the World Health Organization (WHO Special Programme of Research, Development and Research Training in Human Reproduction) and conducted by the author as Principal Investigator.